MOVEMENTS OF MAIL STEAMERS

Change in Japan Current Noted.

CORDOVA (Alaska), January 26. A phenomenal change in the course of the Japan current, which is now setting closer to the Alaskan coast, was reported today by Captain J. C. Hunter of the steamship Northwestern and Captain P. A. Ober of the steamship Edith, which arrived from Seattle today. Captain Hunter said that the Northwestern was set fifty-five miles eastward ahead of the log running from Cape Flattery to Cape St Elias, and then set twenty-six miles off her course running from Cape Omnia to St Elias.

Unusual weather conditions, believed to be due to the change in the current, have prevailed here for several weeks. The average temperature has been 44 degrees above zero and there have been heavy rains melting the snow in the foothills. Reports from the interior show temperatures there 15 degrees higher than ever before recorded at this time of year.

Warnings by wireless have been sent to the steamships Alameda and Bertha, now en route to Cordova, if the vessels should encounter thick weather in approaching Cape St Elias and the current caused them to run over their log, there is danger of the ships going on the rocks.

No satisfactory explanation has been given for the change in the current. One theory advanced is that the recent volcanic disturbance in the Alaska peninsula may have thrown up some new island in the North Pacific which may have swing the current from its old course.

Robert Lewers Due Daily.

The American schooner Robert Lewers, with lumber for Lewers & Cooke of this city, is over thirty days out from Port Ludlow. This vessel may be looked for any day. From the same port and en route to the islands of the bank Albert, leaving nineteen days ago and en route to Hilo; also the E. K. Wood, sailing from Port Ludlow ten days ago.
